PREFACE.

This list is a memorandum to promote the completion of the historical department of the Boston Public Library. It was suggested by a somewhat similar list issued some years ago by the American Antiquarian Society, and whose titles are here incorporated.

Such of its items as the Library contains are designated by their shelf marks. So far, this will, of course, serve as a finding list also. A plus sign appended to a shelf mark means that the Library has other copies. "Have" means that the book is in the Library, but not yet located.

All those publications named below, and not having a shelf mark, and any additional titles, the Library would like to receive by gift or purchase.

The list is confined to towns, counties, and regions within or less than States; and titles of works reprinted in collections, such as those by Force, Sabin, the Mass. Hist. Soc., the Prince Society, etc., are not included.

The number of entries under Boston is made larger than will be practicable for other towns, by the admission of a number of titles of public documents, of publications by institutions, etc. The Library, being the property of the city, must naturally become the repository of as detailed a collection as possible, not only of works directly upon its history, but of materials for its history. But a similar rule, namely, to include in local history the history of local institutions and concerns, has been followed as far as practicable, within Massachusetts, and to some extent elsewhere.

The arrangement is alphabetical, by the names of the towns or other territories concerned.

The titles are necessarily much condensed and abbreviated. If no State is named, Massachusetts is intended. Publications under each town, etc., are usually placed in the chronological order of their appearance in print, except that subsequent editions are placed under first editions.

Except in a few instances, Rebellion local history has not been recorded. A future list may, perhaps, contain it.

Titles of books not in the Library have not been verified. Special thanks are due to Jeremiah Colburn, Esq., for his kindness in permitting the use of his own unpublished additions to his very valuable "Bibliography of the Local History of Massachusetts." Errors and omissions are unavoidable in a list of this kind. Corrections and additions, no matter how numerous, are earnestly solicited, and will be gladly received and carefully recorded.

The above paragraphs are reprinted nearly as they appeared in the Library Bulletin of January, 1876, in which this Check List was begun. A few observations further will be convenient — for the compiler.

American bibliography, so far as it exists, is predominantly historical. We have no great general work on American books like those of Brunet and Graesse on books generally, nor like those of Hain, Panzer, etc., because we have nothing to make them of, and next to nobody to make them for. Even an American counterpart to Bohn's Lowndes would be a loss to the publisher. In a few departments other than historical, there has been some creditable bibliographical work, in some cases of a high degree of intrinsic merit. The following very short list includes the chief American bibliographies other than historical, and its arrangement shows the order of time in which the different subjects dealt with first engaged the attention of the compilers.

1. Religion. Decanver's (i. e. Cavender's) Books in refutation of Methodism, 1846. 2d ed., 1868.
——— O'Callaghan's Bibles printed in America, 1861.
——— Abbot, E. Literature of the doctrine of a future life, 1864.
——— Finotti's Catholic books printed in America (Part I only, to 1820), 1872.
2. Indians. Schoolcraft's List of books on, 1849.
——— Ludewig's Literature of aboriginal languages, 1858.
——— Field's Essay on bibliography of, 1873.
3. Masonry. List of works against, in public libraries of 28 states, 1852. (By Henry Gassett.)

102891

4. Genealogy and Biography. Whitmore's Handbook of American Genealogy, 1862. 2d ed., 1868.

—— Durrie's Index to American Genealogies, 1868.

—— Boyd and Hart's Lincoln Bibliography, 1870.

5. Literature generally. Bibliography of Maine. In Griffin's History of the Press of Maine, 1872.

—— Harris' Index to American poetry and plays in his collection, 1874.

—— List of American publications before 1775, in the new edition of Thomas' History of Printing, 1876.

About American history, with which are closely connected genealogy and one or two biographical specialties (e. g. Washington, Lincoln), there exists that sort of financiering fanaticism which has prevailed about tulips, crockery, and other heathen gods of collectors. Coincident with this craze, which is operative on both sides of the Atlantic, there is also a zeal,— one curiously fervent and efficient for a nation so young, and which prevails within the nation,—to wit, the zeal for investigating and publishing on these same subjects.

In this department, therefore, under the joint influence of enthusiasm managed by speculation, we have conditions which encourage bibliographies, and so there are a number. Such are publications of the class of Rich and Stevens, Ternaux-Compans and Harrisse, and the catalogue of Mr. J. C. Brown's library, all of them relating to "early" rather than "local" American history. Mr. J. R. Bartlett's "Literature of the Rebellion" is a meritorious beginning of the bibliography of that period of history, though speckled with an extraordinary swarm of typographical errors. Mr. Sabin's remarkably extensive and useful "Dictionary of books relating to America" fulfils so well the promise of its title that if it were now complete and within the reach of common folks, the present little list would not have been needed nor made; but it is not every one who can go to Corinth and pay three hundred and twenty dollars, or even a hundred and sixty (about the cost of the small paper full set), for a bibliography of one department of literature, even if so workmanlike, learned, exhaustive and trustworthy as Mr. Sabin's.

As to American local history proper and exclusive, substantially as above defined in the fourth paragraph of this preface, no list was found when the present one was begun, such as might be used as a memorandum in completing collections. Ludewig's little tract was a pioneer attempt, and between its issue a generation ago in 1846, and now, there has appeared nothing in the nature of an enlarged edition of it. Except in shortness of titles, this check list may perhaps be reckoned an attempt at such an edition. At any rate, to prepare one has been a favorite notion of the compiler's for twenty years, and if this is not it, he will apparently not make any.

Seven State local history bibliographies, of more or less extent, have been printed, as follows: —

Maine, by Hon. Wm. Willis, in Norton's Literary Letter, No. 4, 1859; and afterwards in the Historical Magazine, March, 1870.

Maryland (through Baltimore only), by Rev. J. G. Morris, D.D., in the Historical Magazine, April and May, 1870.

Massachusetts, by Mr. Colburn.

Minnesota, by Mr. Williams.

New Hampshire, by Mr. Eastman, in Norton's Literary Letter, Nov. (?) 1859.

Rhode Island, by Mr. Bartlett.

Wisconsin, by Mr. Durrie, in the Historical Magazine, April, 1870.

Besides these sources, use has been made for the present purpose of library and sale catalogues; of course with a full understanding of the inaccuracies unavoidable in such work. Applications have been made by letter to a few competent local authorities, all of whom have replied with both kindness and information; but to preserve this method throughout has not been practicable.

It would have been desirable to give full titles, imprints, and so on; but the beginning of a bibliography is as when one letteth out water, and great self-control (i. e. wisdom forced by circumstances) has ruled the limitation of this list.

The matter from the Bulletin has been leaded, for the sake of making this quarto edition of the list more convenient for use. To the same end the outer half of each page is left blank for notes and new titles, as it is meant for a working book.

No one can know half as well as the compiler the imperfections of his work. The competent judges, however, in such a case, are the ones who will be sure not to find fault. The request above for additions and corrections is repeated.

F. B. PERKINS.

Note. — There are many publications upon the early period of the history of New England and of the colony of Massachusetts Bay, when Boston was relatively a larger part of them than now, which are indispensable for dealing with the history of Boston, but which are omitted in the present list. They may possibly be recorded in a future similar list of works relating to the states and regions of the United States, and to the United States at large. The Boston town and city public documents, only a few of which are entered in this list, have been indexed alphabetically under subjects, by Mr. Bugbee [B.H. desk, A. 35, and 6354.2].

Additions and Corrections.

I am sincerely grateful to the gentlemen who have pointed out to me a certain number of inaccuracies and errors in the preceding list. I only wish I could believe that they have all been pointed out. The additional titles have either been added in full, on further reflection, as in the cases of Hollis street, Mr. Mann's controversy with the thirty-one Boston school-masters, etc., or have been gathered during the progress of the main list.

CORRECTIONS.

The list of state bibliographies on p. 4 should say eight instead of seven; and there should be added, a Vermont list, by B. H. Hall, being No. 2 of 2d series of Norton's Literary Letter, 1860.

Alexandria, Vt. Correct name of state to Va.
Andover, Ct. Cong. Ch.: history. Rogers. 1849. Erase this entry; there is no such work.
Antrim, N. H. History. Whiton. 1844. Correct date to 1852.
Athol in the rebellion. For Knowlton, read Norton.
Baltimore. Muster-roll, etc. [Hickman.] Date this [1858].
— 2d St. Church; centenary sermon. For Hemer, read Heiner.
— Md. Institute; address by Kennedy. Make the date 1851.
— Floating school; brief history. 1860. Insert as author's name [McJilton].
Barnstable. Conference, etc.; hist. sketch. 1846. Insert as author's name [Pease].
Blue Earth City. Insert as name of state, Minn.
Boston. Christ Church. Erase two entries, date 1820, 1824, on p. 17. The proper entry, under 1824, is in the following additions.
— Entertainment, etc. 1750. Add, Poem. By Jos. Green?
— Letters of Columbus. 1829. Insert as author's name [Kettell].
